Supplemental Box

(To be used when the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient)

Continuation of: IV.3

Claims 1-7 pertain to micelle-containing organic polymers that fulfill relational expression (1).

However, claim 9 pertains to a porous organic polymer material with a specific pore volume, claims 14-15 pertain to a method for producing a porous organic polymer material, claim 16 pertains to a porous carbon material with a specific pore volume, and claim 21 pertains to a method for producing a porous carbon material.

These inventions cannot be considered to be a single invention or a group of inventions so linked as to form a single general inventive concept.

VIII. Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:

The organic polymer that is set forth in claim 1 is specified solely by the characteristics thereof; therefore, it is not possible to understand the exact nature of this polymer. Consequently, the invention set forth in claim 1 is unclear.
